RANBANKA GARH

JODHPUR

FROM THE CEO'S DESK

For over 600 years, Ranbanka Garh has been more than a fort—it has been a witness to Rajasthan's glorious past, a retreat for its rulers, and a sanctuary of tradition. Each stone tells a tale, each whisper of the wind carries the echoes of history.

Preserving this legacy is not just about conservation; it is about breathing life into history. The Jodhpur Gharana architecture remains untouched, while the lake, once a lifeline to the land, is being carefully restored to sustain its diverse wildlife—blackbucks, peacocks, and migratory birds.

Ranbanka Garh is not just a destination—it is a living chronicle of Rajasthan's past, inviting every guest to step into a world where history, culture, and nature exist in perfect harmony.
